

CARE Act Resources for Petitioners

CARE petitions may be filed in the counties of Glenn, Kern, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Diego, San Francisco, San Mateo, Stanislaus, and Tuolumne.

Petitions must be filed in the county in which the respondent resides, is found, or is facing criminal or civil proceedings. Petitions may not be filed in any of the remaining 48 counties until their implementation date of December 1, 2024.

Petition Process Overview

- Petitioners must fill out the required forms posted on the Judicial Council website, and petitions may be submitted to the local courts, which may be located at the CARE Act Website Directory.
- When filing a petition, proof of eligibility must be submitted in the form of a Mental Health Declaration (Form CARE-101) and/or evidence that the respondent was detained for at least two periods of intensive treatment, with the most recent period being within the past 60 days.
- Once a petition is filed and reviewed, if the court finds upon initial examination that the petition shows the respondent is, or may be, eligible, the court will either set an initial appearance within 14 days if the petition was filed by a county behavioral health agency, or order a county behavioral health agency to investigate if they were not the petitioner. If the court finds that the petition does not show upon initial examination that the respondent is, or may be, eligible, the court may dismiss the case.
